

SECRET #6: Spirit guides often play with symbols and homonyms – words that sound alike, yet mean different things – to send messages with multiple meanings.

For example, this playbook is a manual, or handbook, for an angel-guided game. If a manual is available online, it becomes an E-Manual. A homonym for E-Manual is Emmanuel, a biblical name meaning "God with us". Indeed, God is with us as we continue this game and I share the next story.

Thursday, December 22, 2011 – Three days before Christmas I followed a new trail to search for the secret Bleachery Falls I had read about. I walked past some apartments by the Bleachery Pond and toward St. Patrick's cemetery, where I hunted for the trail head. Was it by chance that I found the trail near a headstone marked with the name HUNT? From the top of the trail head, I could hear the waterfall below. I wandered into the woods and down the hill.

At the bottom of the hill, I noticed a piece of fabric draped on some low branches at the side of the path. It was covered with peace symbols... upside down peace symbols. The fabric fell down through the branches like a waterfall. A peaceful flow.

What did this mean?

Thoughts tumbled topsy turvy over and over in my mind as I walked along the trail toward the falls... A piece with lots of peaces? Lots of pieces? I ask what I can do to help create a more peaceful world... and what is the answer? A silly game, a turn of words, a playful spirit, and lots of pieces.

ASSIGNMENT #6

Take a pencil and paper with you on your next walk. Watch for symbols and for objects that might represent homonyms, and write them down as you think of them.
